RICHARDS' GARDENS

WHOLESALE TRADE LIST

March 4, 1941

HOME-GROWN EVERGREENS two and three times transplanted (each X means one transplanting) and cut back several times to make beautiful, full-centered, compact specimens. Dug and carefully handled by men who appreciate their quality and take pride in getting ample earth balls without damaging tops. No soft balls on Richards' Evergreens, no strained or broken branches to die out later and bring complaints.

No large freight bills. When you consider transportation charges and the natural, in-grown superiority of this home-grown stock you'll agree that Richards' Evergreens would be bargains at 50% above midwest prices -- But we offer them at competitive prices!

Note -- Evergreens personally selected in the field by the purchaser will be billed at list prices plus 15%.

Six years ago we collected seed from a Burr Oak in the college arboretum, not noticing a Swamp White Oak nearby. The seedlings, of course, were hybrids with characteristics of both, plus a few of their own, one of which has, so far, made them easy to transplant. Now they're XX trees, up to 6-7' size, but we haven't room to give them and must let them go. Don't like to do it either, because we think they'll grow into something good-an easily handled, repid growing hardwood. If you'd like to try something out of the ordinary have a go at these:

54	3-4 ft.	30¢ each
31	4-5 ft.	40¢ each
35	5-6 ft.	55¢ each
19	6-7 ft.	65¢ each

Entire lot of 139 trees for $50.

FOREST SEEDLINGS

Two-year-old, larger sizes well branched, power dug to give you all the roots. Please note EXTRA VALUE in the smallest size -- graded 9-12" instead of the usual 6-12". They're worth more but they cost less!
